The LEGO fied version of The Force Awakens offers exactly what we want in this game: brick-breaking action, funny puzzles, lots of goody humor. It captures the spirit of Episode VII, perfect for the voice actors of the cast and the opportunity to play through events that are not shown in the film. You can try the first level for free, but this is just the beginning of your magical journey. This game is a quality Lego game. It's well reformed, has a good layout (for the most part), and it's fun and engaging. However, there are some problems. For example, it costs too much to get the entire game. In the end, I paid 6.99, but the cost is too high. There was also a bug. What happened was I changed my custom character from The Jedi Resistance Champion, but when I pressed the save and exit buttons, the characters reverted back to the resistance champion. I hope Warner Bros. solves the problem. But it's still a great game. Update: The bug that occurred once appeared to have occurred because it did not occur the next time you changed a custom character. The first of all the games is so amazing that I love the game and I think you did a good job of making a lot of thanks but now it is amazing to be a game that can be played online as if you can play with your friends and family, the first of all the games is amazing to listen to me and i hope to be able to perform missions online with other friends if one person can complete all the missions and play together in the lobby If I can play the game together, and so I can make the game better so I can literally play every day, I want people to read this and support this review. But the game call u used to buy characters and perks) but you appreciate it once again and also the last thing is your other instead of updates or you can play another game of your decision but I have already tried the perfect game and so I have to choose the perfect game so I have to choose rl this review and people support it and I think it's what we all want or most of us will make a game that I want 100% so please hello. 🙏🙏🙏 developer website app support privacy policy policy
